Self taught front end web developer with a passion for learning.

Currently looking for an Intern/Junior Position focusing on creating beautiful and user friendly apps and websites while helping write clean code.

I use Git for all my work, you can check out my Github page for random projects and contributions.

EXPERIENCE

Alex auto detailing— Freelance

July 2022

<https://www.alexautodetailing.co.uk/>

Alex had an existing website made by himself using Google-sites, however the website had no appealing design and the information was hard to read. I jumped on this opportunity to design and develop a new website for him.

Using Bootstrap I designed and developed a simple clean and responsive website to showcase the services including a booking request form.

As I am trying to break into a full time front end role, I am always hungry for freelance roles and use situations like this to develop my skills as well as getting experience working to client feedback.

Wanting to display some projects, I kept the design of this page simple with my logo resembling a keyboard key or an app logo. I decided to use Bootstrap for its speed and simplicity. I enjoy how bootstrap allows me to smoothly design and develop at the same time. I particularly like the semi-transparent navbar which has a blurred background.

Outside of coding I like to spend my time taking photos and wanted a website to showcase some of my photos.
